"Beggar" to Play Nearer Home

The Cator-Newberry comic opera, "The Beggar of Bagdad," will be given one more performance at least, by the splendid cast that made such a hit in San Jose. In its entirety, principals, chorus, ponies and solo dancer, with all the magnificent costumes and scenery, it will be transported to Watsonville, and play Friday night, December 11, at the beautiful Appleton Theater.

There are seventy-three men and girls in the cast and chorus—mostly pretty girls. There are a dozen more, fine musicians, too, in the orchestra. In automobiles and busses, the whole outfit will travel across the mountains so that the people in the home section of the opera's authors may have opportunity to see it just as it was when played in San Jose.

Among the principals are two men whose names on the program disguise their identity somewhat, but both are Montereyans. Arthur Cyril Cyrello, as the more simple Arthur Cyril, handled affairs of the Carmel Arts and Crafts Theater, and often played on its stage and at the Forest Theater; and George Carroll, the Hajib of the Beggar of Bagdad, is Carroll Sandholt of Moss Landing, and the tenor of many a show and concert here.

Leda Gregory Jackson, who made a hit as Cinderella in the San Jose production, has been heard in concerts at Pacific Grove several times, and is well known there and in Carmel. William Degan, basso profundo, formerly of the Dunbar Opera Company, has also sung in Carmel, and has many friends and admirers among the musical folk of the Peninsula. Many people of this section are making their plans for theatre parties, and family affairs at the Appleton performance.

WELL-KNOWN WOMAN PASSES

Mrs. Clara R. McCollom, one of Carmel's best-known and most highly respected residents, passed away in a Berkeley hospital last Wednesday, after a brief illness.

Mrs. McCollom was the wife of Dr. Charles A. McCollom, the mother of Mrs. George Clute of Oakland, formerly of this city, of Mrs. Alfred Rollo of Seattle, and W. Harry and C. Rolfe McCollom. She was also the sister of Mrs. E. R. Veblen who formerly lived here. Mrs. McCollom was born in Beloit, Wis., in 1852.

During her residence here the deceased was very well known in social and church circles. She was an active parishioner of All Saints here for several years. The McColloms came here from Minneapolis, where they made their home for many years.

Services were held in the California Crematory, Berkeley, on Thursday afternoon.

AT THE THEATRE OR ON THE AIR

The Pacific Grove Musical Society has prepared a splendid program for the concert next Monday evening at the new Grove Theatre. Many Carmelites will attend.

Director L. E. Cosmey announces that on January 17th, the entire organization will go to Oakland to broadcast its program from station KLX, Oakland Tribune.

Prominent Citizen Taken by Death

At his home in Washington, D. C. General David Stewart Gordon, 94 years of age, oldest retired general officer of the United States Army, today mourns the death of his son, Phil K. Gordon, beloved resident of Carmel, who passed away last Sunday night after but a brief illness. Recurrent heart attacks between Thanksgiving Day and Sunday caused death.

Phil Gordon and his wife came to Carmel to make their home about eight years ago, and lost little time in getting into things social, dramatic and civic. Four years ago they built their charming home on San Antonio avenue, one of the most attractive and substantial residences in this city.

The deceased was born at Fort Kearney, Nebraska, in 1868. His father was stationed there at the time. Mr. Gordon had a very extensive business experience. For many years he held a responsible executive position with the Southern Pacific railroad company. His passing is keenly felt, not only by Carmelites generally, but by a host of friends throughout California and Oregon.

Carmel's last tribute to the deceased took place last Tuesday morning, when the Masonic Club escorted the body from the Paul undertaking parlors in Pacific Grove to the train. The remains were cremated in San Francisco Wednesday.

Surviving the deceased are: his wife, Mrs. Marie Gordon, two sons, John Stuart Gordon of Tacoma and Phil K. Gordon; a daughter, Mrs. Shelby M. Tuttle in Medford, Oregon; his father, General David Stewart Gordon, Washington, D. C.; a brother, Charles H. Gordon of Los Angeles; and a sister, Mrs. Francis M. Shook of Oakland.

POPULAR SPEAKER IN SERIES OF TALKS HERE

Aline Barrett Greenwood, popular speaker on world events, books and their authors, plays, new books and art, will give a series of six talks in Carmel under the auspices of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts. It is with a feeling of pride that this organization is able to present Miss Greenwood to Peninsula audiences once each month beginning December 21st at three o'clock and continuing through May.

Miss Greenwood is no stranger to Carmel, having given one of her delightful running commentaries at Pine Inn last month when, through the generosity of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Jordan, she was brought here and all of the receipts from the sale of tickets was given to the Arts and Crafts.

Enthusiasm ran high after the lecture, and over sixty persons signed their names in an effort to induce Miss Greenwood to add Carmel to her monthly series. She now speaks twenty-one times each month to over seven thousand persons in California alone, and the Peninsula will welcome her enthusiastically.

Season tickets for the series of six talks are now on sale. The tickets to the Carmel series are transferable, and Alice Seckles, manager for Miss Greenwood, states that it will be honored when the holder attends any Greenwood review from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

Trustees Approve Hatton Fields Map

Shortly after the meeting of the city board of trustees was called to order last Monday night, the following resolution was presented by President William T. Kibbler and unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It has pleased the Almighty to take from our midst Phil K. Gordon, and

WHEREAS, Phil K. Gordon was an influential and enthusiastic citizen in the artistic and material advancement of Carmel-by-the-Sea, it is hereby

RESOLVED: That the Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea does sincerely regret the passing of Phil K. Gordon, and extends to his widow and family its condolences.

A communication from Mrs. E. A. Kluegel was read in which the writer asked permission to erect, at her own expense, a bulletin board and benches on the city's Harrison property at Ocean avenue and Lincoln street. The project is endorsed by the City Planning Commission. Referred to the superintendent of streets with power to act.

The next communication was from R. G. Leidig, making application for the position of fire chief, for which he was recommended by members of the fire department. This matter was taken up in executive session.

Reeve Conover, landscape engineer, presented to the board the recently prepared map of the new Hatton Fields subdivision, east of Carmel. It was approved and signed by the board.

A number of dead trees on city property were ordered removed. And while on the subject of trees, a motion made by Trustee Helen W. Parkes was adopted, referring to the City Planning the advisability of a study of the local tree question.

Mrs. Maude I. Hogle again appeared before the board seeking an adjustment of the Jacinto Re property matter, and was assured by City Attorney Argyll Campbell that the matter would be attended to.

The trustees authorized the purchase and installation of three traffic buttons on the new Ocean-Carpenter highway.

City Clerk Saidee Van Brower's request for the installation of a filing cabinet in her office was granted.

The board also authorized the purchase of the California codes.

Several property owners appeared to protest the work on the recently paved Twelfth avenue. Referred to the superintendent of streets.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Four new Boy Scouts were given their badges at the last meeting of the Scouts—John Rockwell, Charles Grimshaw, Peter Floor and Dale Leidig.

The Scouts went on a supper hike last Saturday to the beach between Point Lobos and Carmel and, after depositing their food in the rocks went further down the coast. On returning, several scouts passed cooking and other requirements.

Because of additional work, Dr. Newton, the scoutmaster, will be absent from Scout activities for one month. During his absence Mr. Young will be in charge.

Unusual Play at Golden Bough

Theatre-goers in Carmel and vicinity are promised an unusual dramatic treat in the announcement that Ben Legere and his San Francisco Art Theatre company are here to present "The Master."

The Theatre of the Golden Bough has secured this attraction for two nights, tonight and tomorrow night, and the same company of players which supported Legere during his recent run in San Francisco have an opportunity to see this remarkable drama.

"The Master" is the work of Hermann Bahr, leading dramatist of Austria, and is undoubtedly his greatest play. In Europe it is ranked with the work of Ibsen and for twenty years since its first presentation it has been a popular bill in the repertoire of many of the leading continental actors.

It was played for two seasons in New York by Arnold Daly, and Legere, who was at that time a member of Daly's company, understudied the role of star. Legere first produced "The Master" in San Francisco at the Plaza Theater in 1924 and scored a success in the title role. The San Francisco critics acclaimed his performance an artistic triumph and in the revival made this season at the San Francisco Art Theatre he has repeated his success.

The engagement at the Golden Bough will be Legere's first appearance in Carmel, and "The Master" offers him an opportunity to be seen at his best. Although he has played many parts in his sixteen years' experience in the theatre, Mr. Legere considers the character of Dr. Arthur Wesley in "The Master" by far the most interesting and exacting role he has played.

Those who know the play are looking forward to its presentation with eager anticipation and it is expected that representative audiences will be on hand to welcome the company.

MAILING CHRISTMAS CARDS

The early mailing of Christmas Cards is just as important as parcels. Millions of these cards, separate and in envelopes, are mailed each Christmas. Consequently, great congestion and delay occurs in large post offices, where they are all mailed within a day or two of Christmas. Therefore, if you want your Christmas greetings to reach your relatives and friends on or before Christmas Day, have them printed or engraved now and mail early.

Coming Events

Monday, Dec. 7—Regular meeting of Board of Trustees. City Hall.

Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 5 and 6—Telegraph Hill Players in "The Master." Golden Bough.

Sunday, Dec. 6—Elks' Memorial Day services in lodgeroom in Monterey.

January 1-2—Irving Pichel and Berkeley Playhouse Players in Eugene O'Neill's Play, "All God's Chillun Got Wings." Golden Bough.

Col. Clair Foster and wife have returned from the East. The colonel is as great a radio enthusiast as ever. He opines that Carmel probably has the best amateur station in California. Going some.

ITEMS OF INTEREST

Prof. and Mrs. K. G. Rentdorff and daughter Gertrude from Palo Alto, are spending the holidays in their cottage on north Camino Real.

Mrs. M. B. Appleby, mother of Mrs. Gladys Young, who has been quite ill in San Francisco, is making good progress toward recovery.

After spending the summer and fall in Canada and Cleveland, Mrs. George Ross is with us again until the spring. She is staying at Pine Inn.

TO BETTIE

You with the flower-like face,
Seated upon your horse with iscourt grace,
Like Joan of Arc of old you fight
On that great battle-field
Where clawing hands reach out
To squeeze, to grasp, to crush with might Like Joan of Arc of old, you a vision city see.
Ride you proudly on—
For safe within your soul you hold the key.—I.S.W.

PATRIOTISM?

Written for the Pine Cone by
THE OBSERVER

Patriotism is a grand thing—to make money of. And money is the one thing that knows no country.

Do you remember the bitter attacks in the British Parliament and British papers, and in some of our own papers, before we went into the war, about us selling foodstuffs to Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Holland? Remember how the Allies captured American ships and confiscated the cargoes, claiming that it was intended for the Germans?

Now we have another light on the cause of the complaint. It interfered with British merchants selling to those same countries, knowing the food was going to be delivered to the Germans. Pretty rotten work, wasn't it? One can hardly believe it—but evidently it was a fact.

Rear Admiral Consett, a British naval officer, who was the naval attaché at Copenhagen, has published a book lately and told many ugly truths about our "cousins across the sea" and their idea of decency.

During the war, he says, "Denmark was Germany's larder, Sweden her workshop." We learn that the mercantile community of Great Britain was trading pretty much to the same extent as America—and to all extents and purposes with the enemy.

The Admiral continues: "America may have put us on an allowance of maritime rights—not by any means an ungenerous one—but she never put any obstacle in the way of our stopping our own trade with Scandinavia. * * * It was chiefly our trade with Germany's neutral neighbors that undermined the power of the fleet, succored our enemies, and nearly led to our defeat."

Now, whenever you hear any yelp from British businessmen about England's suffering, think of her merchants when you think of her fighters, think of the mud, rats and dead in the trenches of France as you think of the trading swine who fattened on the bodies of the slain.

RADIO—Eagle - Erla - Airo-Master. Sets and accessories; Tubes, batteries, phones, speakers. Servicing. Concert Radio Studio, Lincoln at Fourth. Open evenings.—Adv.

HASH

In which may be found most anything or nothing; sometimes to your taste—sometimes not. Concocted and served by IRRESPONSIBLE AL

Dear Al: Monterey, Calif.
Yesterday I was through a cannery. A sardine cannery. I saw millions of fishes beheaded and detailed, cooked, canned and cased. They smell. I mean you smell. They're dead and can't smell. But that's why they do smell. Because they are dead. I mean. And because they are fish. But it was interesting. Now I know where they get that expression, POOR FISH! But fishes live all their lives in a big, clean ocean, so they're bound to be clean. I am the same. Will close now.
Your friend, AMBROSE.
P. S. They do not make tapioca out of the fish-eyes.

To B. D. and all others concerned:
I did not write this.
We're makin' progress backward,
(And you'll string along, I know)
When they took away our signboard.
(To old-timers 'twas a blow.)

For years we uster stop there,
We just swore by that old fence,
And we got a "kick" for nothin'—
It wasn't no expense.

I can't just now remember,
But 'twas quite a spell ago,
That Mary lost her glasses—
Geel! there surely was some woe.

We searched around and hunted;
For days life was a fright.
I got no peace at noon-day—
And I got no sleep at night.

Till I suddenly remembered
The old fence on Ocean ave.
Where people always advertised
The things that they would have.

With tack and hammer right away
And "Lost" sign written out
I beat it for that dear old fence—
I felt like I could shout.

I know you won't believe me,
But it really is quite true:
That Mary got her glasses—
And we're happy through and through.

So what I started out to say
'Bout progress goin' back,
The fence is what we lack!

LOVE EDITOR'S DEPT.

Dear Miss Sylvia: I read your kind offer last evening, and thought perhaps you could help me. I would like to give my sheik a Christmas present, but for the life of me, can't think what to get him, as he does not smoke, drink, chew (or use bad language.)—
PERPLEXED.

Perplexed, you surely are up against it; no use in my suggesting a box of cigars or a pocket-flask for such a model young man. Had you thought of a silk nightie or a wrist watch? Or a bottle of perfume?

Dear Miss Sylvia: A very handsome young man has been paying me some attention lately, but mother insists that I am too young to go out riding with him alone. She says I may go only when she is along. Can you help me?—MaMa Doll.

P. S. I think you're wonderful—even if you are a man.

Dear MaMa Doll: You do not state how old your mother is, and whether or not your father is living. Please advise me as soon as possible. In the meantime, I think Mamma would bear watching.

P. S. How did you guess it?

PHONE-FOR-FOOD CAMPAIGN GROWS IN POPULARITY

The "Phone for Food" movement, which was inaugurated among retail grocers earlier this year, is making rapid headway. Retail grocers all over the country have enlisted by the thousands in this campaign which was launched by the National Wholesale Grocers' Association.

The principal arguments in favor of the "Phone for Food" idea, from the housewives' point of view, are that it saves time, conserves energy in that there is no need to carry bulky packages, it insures delivery at your door, rain or sunshine, throughout the year. It does away with the shopping inconveniences and finally it enables a person to shop at any time during the day.

However, there are also advantages to the retail grocer, as it enables him to reduce his cost of doing business and, at the same time, permits him to do a greater amount of business at a material reduction of cost per sale.

The "Phone for Food" movement is one that is not confined exclusively to the big towns and cities.

A retail firm in a small town in Illinois recently adapted the plan to rural needs. A circular letter was sent out to all its country customers, calling their attention to the economy in time and energy if they would telephone their orders and drop into the store on their arrival in town later, in order to secure their packages which by that time would be wrapped up and ready for them.

Be a Milk Tippler, Says Dr. Schireson

Peaches and cream complexions of American women have their foundation in a milk diet, according to Dr. Henry J. Schireson, famous Chicago dermatologist and facial plastic surgeon.

Doctor Schireson has won fame by beautifying motion picture, musical comedy and vaudeville stars and many society women of America. He transformed Fanny Brice's nose, rejuvenated Eva Tanguay's face, removed sixty-four pounds of adipose tissue from Truly Shattuck in one operation, straightened the cross eyes of the leading lady of Singer's midlets, and has performed other corrections for making people young and beautiful.

Doctor Schireson has one infallible prescription for the attainment of beauty. It is: "One quart of milk a day, one hour of sunshine, and repeat ad libitum."

"Beauty specialists and cosmeticians," says Doctor Schireson, "would be driven out of business in a few weeks if all the women of America would drink their quart of milk a day."

"Babies and children have complexions of angels for the reason that they are fed largely on milk. Milk used externally or internally is a beautifier. Anna Held, I believe, was the first actress who adopted the milk bath. While this was a novelty at the time, and her press agent undoubtedly made the most of it, the principle in itself was sound. But a beauty secret of even more value is the daily quart of milk taken as a part of the diet."

"The milk-fed girl is easily distinguished by the velvety texture and the healthy color of her skin. Milk is a wonderful body builder, because it contains every structural element. It is, in a way, an elixir of life."

"Authorities agree that milk is the most nearly perfect food but it is an extremely delicate one as well. Heat sufficient to kill all bacteria is the essential of absolutely pure and sterile milk. One of the advantages of evaporated milk, which is simply fresh cow's milk with sixty per cent of the water removed, is that it is entirely sterile and is more easily assimilated than ordinary market milk."

"Milk is mentioned forty-seven times in the Bible. The Promised Land of the Israelites was said to flow 'with milk and honey' and Ovid graded milk as second only to nectar, the drink of the gods."

"PINAFORE PLAYHOUSE" IS NEWEST ADDITION TO CARMEL'S 'SHOPS'

Do not fail to find your way down into Carmel's Fairyland of toys—the Pinafore Playhouse. Even an adult would go into raptures of joy upon seeing all the mechanical marvels, lovable dolls, and unbreakable toys, located in the little shop formerly occupied by the "Bloomin' Basement" on Ocean avenue.

After you are attracted into the shop by the gay front door bearing a conventionalized design and the words "Pinafore Playhouse," you are first greeted by a little furry monkey dangling in mid-air, and who jumps up and down when his tail is pulled. From him your eye is attracted to many things at once (if that is possible) and in a flitting glance you see trains, coasters, scooters; dolls and doll-houses and furniture; furry dogs and donkeys on wheels; a carved wood menagerie; to one's left, a circus; and in front, the stage and dolls for a marionette show. Doll's dresses, for evening or sports wear, adorn the walls—there are even pajamas for dollies, too. The little cedar chests arranged around the floor are for the dolls' wardrobes.

A glance at the painted curtains and the cut paper work on the walls, convinces you that Lucille Keister, who started the Pinafore Playhouse, is a person of some ability, for she alone is responsible for the clever decorations. When we were walking out, she indicated where "Mary and Her Little Lamb" are going to stand, on one side of the top of the steps; and on the other side, where "Little Boy Blue" will greet the passers-by.—M.O.

"LOST WORLD" IS SUPER-THRILLER

Amazement, surprise, disbelief in one's own eyes—these are some of the emotions aroused by "The Lost World" which opens at the Manzanita Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday.

The picture makers have long promised "something really new—a second 'Birth of a Nation'—a photoplay that will start a new chapter in film history."

"The Lost World" comes nearest to living up to these promises of any picture that has been seen for a long time.

School text-books say that the last of the dinosaurs became extinct at least 10,000,000 years ago. Yet on the picture screen these fearsome creatures of the Reptilian Age actually come to life—with a reality that makes one tremble for the safety of Bessie Love, Lewis Stone, Wallace Beery, Lloyd Hughes and the other film adventurers who find the huge creatures still alive in an unexplored area of South America.

The amazement that the reptiles in-still is equaled only by the curiosity as to how the producers were able to do it. This picture might be described as the one photoplay of universal appeal. Every class of movie patron will find a super-thrill in it.

For those who like romance we have Lewis Stone and Lloyd Hughes struggling for the heart of Bessie Love.

For those who hanker for adventure, the picture offers the hunting episode where Stone, Beery and Hughes attempt to bag a 150,000-pound monster.

For the serious-minded student we have a picturization of the earth just as paleontologists say it was millions of years before the first man.

For those who like spectacles, this movie contains what might be termed the most spectacular event the earth has seen in 15,000,000 years.

The producers say it took over seven years to produce this motion picture.

Last Monday morning in the studio of C. Sumner Greene, Miss Alice S. Greene and Calvin W. Bates were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. A. W. Chinn, pastor of All Saints. Only the families of the couple were present. The newly-weds are now honeymooning "somewhere in California."

Exemplify the Spirit God Would Have Shown

"MOTHER, why do we make such ado about Christmas? We all know it's right to remember our Savior's birthday, but why should we litter up the whole house and work our fingers off trying to get all these boxes ready? I'm exhausted and exasperated. It's become a burden to me—Bear ye one another's burdens. I'm going to bear these burdens to the post office as fast as I can, and never again will observe Christmas in this manner."

Georgia was off to the office and soon returned laden with even more boxes than she set out with.

"Truly, Mother, when I posted those boxes I was more happy than when I received all these."

"Just so, Georgia," said her mother. "I knew you were tired and the fresh air would do you good. What we do for others at Christmas is but the spirit of Christmas radiating through us. He came as a gift to us and we show our love by doing His will and spreading joy. We must put joy into what we do and not make it drudgery. One gift to me from a friend, no matter how small, if given with love, is far more appreciated than costly gifts hastily selected. A Christmas gift falls short of its meaning if not given with the spirit God would have us give it.—All in love.—Emily Burke Adams."

NOVEMBER (California)

By MARION B. McAULAY

I heard a meadow-lark this morning.
The sky was overcast with clouds
And rain hung in the air.
Underfoot the new grass
Lifted its tender green
Above the sweet, brown earth,
And in between
Against far wooded hills
Smoke feathered from a chimney-top.
Small birds, wheeling, dipping,
Fluttering in and out a leafless tree
Chattered like a flock of lovely girls
About a bride.
And through the mist a meadow-lark
Lifted his song to the morning.

That Plum Pudding and Some Twisted Mottoes

LOUISE loved jokes. She caught people with questions and puzzled them with conundrums. So she had arranged a program that centered about the Christmas plum pudding. When that came upon the table each one was to put in his thumb and pull out a plum in the shape of a twisted motto; there they were, all around the sides of the platter.

Father was first, unfolding his plum he read off the pit of it and, as if to moderate the coming merriment, said "All is not laugh that titters."

Then mother read hers: "It's a wrong turkey that has no turning." As this did not apply to the bird that had just disappeared, the self-satisfied smile of the cook behind the door did not come off.

Then Aunt Mary: "A hitch in time saves nine." This reference to Bob's trousers asserted his independence of suspenders, but caused his relative to remind him that he was not as needless of stitches as he thought, upon which he replied that he could depend upon that tailor who had advertised "pants a dollars and a half a leg, seats free."

Then Susan: "We never miss the swatter till the flies go by." This was a fly paper upon a dead subject and it was filed for future reference.

Bob's plum was also laid on the table after he had read: "A strolling boy catches no horse." A sentiment that he was inclined to think a little too personal.

Louise had the last plum and declared: "All's well that ends well." Expressing the traveler's satisfaction with terra firma, less terror and more firmer.

But the pudding was cooling and that was no joke, so, as the temperature fell, they fell to.—Christopher G. Hazard.

A CHRISTMAS THOUGHT

The greater happiness of the Christmas season is a direct result of the greater participation of men and women in the spirit of Christ. For then weakness has a power over strength; and then the laughter in the eyes of little children seems a better thing than our own good; and then the tired routine in the lives of those around us looks out upon us through enigmatic eyes, and we understand better, we pity, we cease to condemn—we would even ameliorate, we would show that we see and understand—and so we offer the dumb gift which mutely tells what our words could never tell; and then in our hearts, in our households, in our little world, there is Christmas joy and peace—earth's highest happiness.—Sister M. Fides Shepperson in Pittsburgh Dispatch.

THE GENUINE SPIRIT

The genuine holiday spirit consists not only in wishing a merry Christmas, but in making one.

MOTHERS' CHRISTMAS

After receiving her gifts, mother's Christmas will be devoted largely to washing an extra number of dishes.

NEVER TOO HIGH

It might be different with a lot of things around Christmas, but the mistletoe is never too high.

SPEAKING OF FUEL

A Christmas gift for the man with the average domestic supply of coal: A magnifying glass, a pair of trowsers and the framed motto, "Keep the home fires burning."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

CARMEL BAY

The sun is setting in the West;
Radiant beams reflect the light;
In hues the eye receives no rest

This kingdom of fairy land;

We mortals enriched can stand.

ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL

The Roosevelt association, through Herman Hagedorn, the director of the organization, has made known that the site for the Roosevelt memorial in Washington will be south of the White House, and not far from the Lincoln memorial. This will intensify the beautiful scenic effect already accomplished in the vista from the portico of the Capitol, which takes in the Grant statue, the Washington obelisk, the Lincoln memorial and the Arlington background, where rises the amphitheatre near the Unknown Soldier's tomb. The memorial association seeks to perpetuate Roosevelt's ideals in a way that is most unique. A motion picture library, the first of its kind, of 25,000 feet of Roosevelt scenes and prints, has been collected. It will be used in public school work, thus fascinating the fancy of childhood with a hero who was erstwhile cowboy, big game hunter and President of the United States.

That's why the A-C Dayton is so popular. Inexperienced operators can easily tune in fifteen to twenty-five stations in an evening, consistently, when air conditions are right.

With an A-C Dayton you can tune out powerful local stations and bring in those many miles away with perfect reception.

Regardless of price, you cannot buy clearer, truer and sweeter tone reception than A-C Dayton will give you, yet you can operate an A-C Dayton as easily as you use a telephone.

MORE MUSIC, LESS STRIFE

MUSIC does more than soothe the savage breast. People who sing together don't often fight among themselves. We have never heard of an orchestra practise ending in a free-for-all, nor of a band rehearsal ending in a battle royal, though there may have been such happenings. The point is,—music is appealing to the heart and palliating to the fervor of everyday strife. Our community has civic assets in its musical people, its singers, teachers and leaders. Every movement that tends to develop the musical talent in the community ought to be given all the encouragement that is possible. It is so easy to let others perform the music and ourselves do the too few doers. The Pacific Grove Musical Society is solving this problem.

FINGER PRINTS NOT UNCANNY

A good many people act squeamish over the suggestion that states and cities adopt a civil finger-print registry system. This might mean protection for the innocent as well as detection of the guilty. Experts in criminology have demonstrated that the finger-print is a positive means of identification, and courts accept finger-print testimony as weighty evidence. But why the sensitiveness to the finger-print? It's all in the way one looks at it. Every time you drive your car you carry with it a number plastered on both front and rear. When you register to vote you are numbered. You are glad to drop a penny in a slot to have your weight recorded. Your photograph, which is a whole face and head print, gracefully adorns the top of the piano.

People have been so accustomed to associating finger-prints with crime, that it will take some time to reconcile the idea of submitting the wife or darling baby to finger-printing with the idea of safety and civil duty.

EDISON AND EXERCISE

THOMAS A. EDISON takes little or no physical exercise, and works from 12 to 15 hours a day. No doctor would recommend living as Edison lives, yet most of the doctors would hesitate in telling Mr. Edison how to live, for he probably would smile and go on with his work. The great inventor probably knows that he is violating the rules of health, but is willing to make the sacrifice for humanity's benefit. It is now known that he chose to remain deaf when assured that a slight operation would restore his hearing to normal. That he might be able to concentrate upon his work with distracting noises shut out, Mr. Edison refused to keep the appointment with the surgeon and went on working. There are sacrifices among the humblest, but one of this character is rare except in the realms of genius.

TEACH CHILDREN TO BE KIND

ONE of the most important things to teach children is to take good care of their household pets; to remember to feed them and to give them water to drink at regular times if possible. We are only doing right if we treat every living creature as we would wish to be treated ourselves. If you drive a horse, think how you would like to be treated if you were that horse. Treat your dog and cat as you would like to be treated if you could change places with them.

SESQUICENTENNIAL HISTORY SKETCHES

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

HISTORIC CHRIST CHURCH IN PHILADELPHIA

Old Christ Church, on Second Street between Arch Street, Philadelphia, has heard the prayers of America's first patriots beseeching freedom from tyranny. Visitors to the Sesquicentennial International Exposition next year will scarcely find a landmark of more historical significance.

Construction of the ancient sanctuary, which is of pure Colonial architecture, was begun in 1727. Dissention regarding an environment conducive to worship must have abounded, for many alterations were made, and it was only after the pulpit was moved twice, the gallery enlarged, the seats altered, and the twenty-four branch chandelier hung, that the body of the church was completed in 1744. The pillars alone seem to have been made of adamant.

Funds for a steeple and bells were raised by means of a lottery. The latter would indicate a more broad-minded attitude on the part of our forefathers toward funding expenses than is the custom of the 20th century vestryman. There can be no doubt that it was oversubscribed since Benjamin Franklin was one of its managers. The tower and steeples were completed in 1753-54, and a chime of eight bells, costing five hundred pounds, was imported.

The old pulpit of 1770, the prayer desks made from the original high desk, and the old communion table below the altar, remain to this day. The font, at which Bishop White, Francis Hopkinson, and a long list of worthies were baptized, was replaced in 1879 by one which was the gift of Jonathan Gostelowe. The beautiful silver bowl, weighing over sixty-three ounces, presented by Colonel Robert Quarry of the British Army in 1712, is still used.

It is the general impression that

Washington, during his sojourn in Philadelphia, was a regular attendant at Christ Church. However, it appears from the correspondence of Bishop White with Colonel Mercer that the General was at one time a worshipper at St. Peter's. Says Bishop White: "He was an antipode to those who are in the habit of changing the places of their attendance."

Many distinguished men were buried under the floors of Christ Church, including Bishop White and his brother-in-law, Robert Morris. In the burying ground at the southeast corner of Fifth and Arch Streets were buried Franklin and his wife, Deborah; General James Irvine, Major William Jackson, the Rev. Bird Wilson, Peyton Randolph, president of the First Continental Congress, and Francis Hopkinson.

The Rev. Jacob Duche, a gentleman with Tory proclivities shepherded the illustrious Christ Church flock during the stirring period of 1776. On the Fourth of July, after the reading of the Declaration, he permitted the bells of the church to chime merrily, becoming, for the moment, a patriot. Later he wrote his famous letter to insisted upon using the prayer for the Washington, in which he states that he royal family, till the last moment, though threatened with violence; but that on the Declaration of Independence, not being able to consult his spiritual superior, he called his vestry together and solemnly put the question, whether they thought it best to close the churches or to continue the services without using the petitions for the royal family. The vestry decided: "The Honorable Continental Congress, having resolved to be free and independent States: it will be proper to omit those petitions."

Verily, the clerical conscience was salved with opportunism.

TO RESUME HER MUSICAL ACTIVITIES

It is pleasant to be able to announce the return of an unusual teacher of the pianoforte to the practice of her profession. After a year's break in some two decades devoted to this art, Mrs. Olivia Warfield will reopen her studio in Piedmont and will also maintain a studio in Carmel, which is now her home. After the first of the year Mrs. Warfield will divide her time between these two studios.

Mrs. Warfield is a teacher of the piano by right of lineal descent. Her father, the late Robert James Tolmie, was for forty years one of the leading spirits in the musical life of Buffalo, New York. He was a very gifted musician, a performer on many instruments, and for two decades had charge of the music of one of Buffalo's leading churches. Her sister, Miss Blanche Tolmie, who sang in Buffalo and New York churches and was for several seasons leading soloist with the Ben Greet company, is at present a teacher of music in the Carmel school. Her brother, Robert Tolmie, of Piedmont, is a pianist of more than a sectional reputation, a composer whose works are seriously regarded by the leading musicians here and abroad, and one of the leading teachers of pianoforte study on the Pacific coast. Those who recall the exquisite limpidity and crystalline velocity of his playing of Chopin, know that he is one of the few notable living interpreters of the great Polish composer.

Mrs. Warfield's early training was in the leading conservatories of Europe. She lived abroad with her family for many years. These years were devoted solely to the study of music. Four of these years were spent in Berlin, in the study of the piano and harmony in the Hoch Schule under Herr Louis Bottcher, one of the foremost teachers of this instrument, in the famous old Kullak Conservatory. Later, in New York, she studied for three years with John Barnes, and afterward took a post-graduate course, so to speak, with her brother, Robert Tolmie.

Mrs. Warfield came to California in 1905, opening a studio in Berkeley. Here she scored an immediate success, especially in her work with children, a field in which she has made her own. For many years she numbered the children of the faculty of the University of California among her pupils. It is in this specialized elementary training of children that Mrs. Warfield is best known in the musical world.

Mrs. Warfield has a number of young pupils in Carmel. Tomorrow afternoon these pupils will play for a few invited guests at the studio of Charles Sumner Greene.

BESSIE LOVE — WALLACE BEERY — LEWIS STONE — LLOYD HUGHES

In Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's Stupendous Story—

"The Lost World"

SEE THE GIANT DINOSAUR CRASHING DOWN THE STREETS OF LONDON

Take a trip to wonderland—To the lost world—Now found.

And place before your eyes in a vivid, startling story of romance and adventure.

Come with Prof. Challenger and his band of adventurers.

A trip up the Amazon to places never explored by man.

Live with them in battles with savage native tribes—missing links.

Pass beyond—to the strange, unknown world of prehistoric monsters as big as fifteen elephants—flying reptiles as big as an aeroplane.

Fight for life with them against these monsters of the air, the land and the deep.

Back to London with a caged dinosaur.

Flee with them as he snaps his chains and runs wild down the streets, smashing trams and sky scrapers, crashing through Tower bridge.

It will hold you breathless, clinging to your seats—A PICTURE YOU WILL NEVER FORGET!

"TRULY THE MARVEL OF THE SCREEN"

Pine Needles

S. S. Smith and daughter of Bakersfield are here for several months. They have taken a cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Phillips have as guest this week Miss Jean Fuller of the Portia Mansfield Dancers.

Henry Hagemeyer was in San Francisco early this week on business connected with the Tilly Polak shop.

Attorney Beverly L. Hodghead and family of Berkeley, are here for a vacation. They have the Sandpiper cottage.

Mrs. Fred Leidig was taken very ill about a week ago, and was obliged to go to the hospital. She is now well on the way to recovery.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Staniford were Mr. and Mrs. Nels Rasmussen of Gilroy. The visitors fell in love with Carmel.

The present Great Register of voters will be passe after January 1st next. New registration for all the 1926 elections will begin on January 2.

Next Monday the election for Monterey harbor improvement bonds takes place. It looks as if the propositions will carry by the required two-thirds vote. Every effort is being made to bring out a large vote.

All three bonding propositions—fire department, library and museum—submitted to the voters of Pacific Grove, went down to defeat last Thursday. None of the propositions received the required two-thirds vote.

Mrs. Caroline W. Hollis of Carmel Highlands left for Los Angeles early this week, called there by the death of his daughter, Mildred, who married about a year ago. Mrs. Hollis did not even know that her daughter was ill. The three Hollis girls attended school in Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Phillips will have as guests shortly, Miss Jean Fuller of the Portia Mansfield Dancers.

Carrington Yates of New York, brother of Mrs. Alfred E. Burton, was a week-end visitor here. He is connected with the Astor interests.

It is the present plan of Mrs. S. B. Hunkins, Miss Mossy Hunkins, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin N. Lapham to spend the forthcoming holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Romaine Hunkins in Fresno.

Now that the business streets have been cleaned up, the city officials are asking that the property owners co-operate in an effort to keep them clean. Papers and circulars should not be allowed to clutter up the gutters.

Ira Remsen is still hearing echoes of his editorial work on the Bohemian Grove daily bulletin. The "news" he dug up was really uncanny, because it was fondly imagined that many of the episodes related were long since dead and buried.

The regular Unity tea was held yesterday afternoon, the hostesses being Mrs. E. Walter and Mrs. Hays. Regular services will be held at Unity Hall, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Ida Mansfield will speak on "The Redemption of Satan."

Mrs. Jessie Arms Botke has returned to Carmel, after a two-months' trip in the east. While away she exhibited in New York, Chicago and Aurora. Many critics and art lovers acclaimed her work. She has a number of commissions to execute here.

Mrs. Mabel Gray Young has filed for probate in the Monterey County Superior Court the will of her mother, Mrs. Emma J. Gray, who died on November 18. The value of the estate is estimated to be about $5,000. Mrs. Young, her deceased brother, Lee T. Gray, and several grandchildren are named as beneficiaries.

AIREDALES ON THE JOB

By S.A.R.

We desire publicity given to the fact that on the evening of the 25th of November our dogs deposited on our doorstep a moldy and damp handbag retrieved from some unknown place.

Said handbag contains purse and sum of money, telegram, keys to cottage and postoffice box, powder puff scented with cinnamon, and letters from Bakersfield addressed to a Mrs. Nelson.

Owner may have same by calling at the Pine Cone office and satisfying the editor.
